MEDINA COUNTY CLUB WOMEN TO HOLD EXHIBIT DAY HERE

With the meeting Wednesday of the Food Committee called by Mrs.
G. C. McAnnally, the chairman, final plans were completed for the Home Demonstration Exhibit Day that is to be held September 27 in the old Colonial Theatre Building. Mrs.
McAnnally and her helpers, Mrs.
Preston Gaines and Miss Maritima Hardeman will sell hamburgers, coffee, cake and soda pop.

Closely associated with this group will be the Commodity Booth operated by Mrs. Lonnie Howard of Yan-cey. This booth and the food booth will be the two money raising schemes that the club members are trying this year to reimburse the County Council funds. For the Commodity Sale, every loyal club member is donating a quarter as a commodity that is worth that price. In addition to the quarter commodities
the cook books that the Home Demonstration compiled will be on sale,
but at the regular fifty cent charge.

Mrs. Robert Riff, chairman, Mrs.
Earnest Brucks and Mrs. Harrison Wilson are looking forward to a large showing of fancy work. The club ladies have been urged to bring at least three articles.

Six canned products from every lady is the goal of Chairman Mrs.
John Neuman and her committee of Mrs. Louis Bohmfalk and Miss Lenora Schmidt.

In addition to showing what has been done in club work, the different clubs are putting up educational exhibits that will serve to educate the public on other club work.

Yancey Home Demonstration club will have an exhibit showing basket making. They will show the finished products, as well as several steps in the making.

Murphy club will emphasize "Waste to Something" with a play
on the words if the reader so desires,
since their exhibit will be both.
They are taking waste that would ordinary be thrown away and are making something from it, that will add to the beauty of their home.

The Rio Medina Club realizes that rugs are one of the many touches that can change a house into a home, so they are emphasizing rug making and the different ways they may be made.

Although the Hondo Demonstration Club will have the table all set correctly for a meal, they will not serve any food from their correctly set table. They will exhibit a "Correctly Set Table" using simple accessories that will be within the price range of the moderate income family.

"Pick Cotton" for your wardrobe and home will be the theme of Quin-New Furniture club. They will show cotton materials that can be used in the home and wardrobe. The exhibit will offer many suggestions to ocu-sions with cotton stamps.

Miss Mary Reed, Home Demonstration Agent from Uvalde, will have charge of the judging. No money prizes will be given this year but ribbons will be awarded in all exhibits including the educational ones.

RECEPTION HONORS FACULTY

A reception held Wednesday afternoon, September 24, at the home of Mrs. Barnitz Carle, gave charming testimony of the welcome extended to the members of the faculty of Hondo High School by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the local Methodist Church. Receiving the guests were Mrs. Carle, Mrs. R.
F. Davis, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. S. O. Woolls, president of the Society.

Pink and red radiance roses in an antique white bowl, and white wall brackets holding rose cups of the favorite flowers adorned the reception hall. Vases of red dahlias and blue plumbago were used in the living room. A graceful arrangement of deep pink canna and queen's crown in a low crystal bowl centered the lace-laid tea table. Pink tapers burned in crystal holders. A larger arrangement of the pink blossoms decorated the buffet. Refreshments of chicken salad, hot rolls, almond macaroons and iced tea were served. Mrs. R. J.
Reilly, Mrs. Ashbel Gilliam, Mrs. W.
L. Windrow, Mrs. L. E. Kollman Jr.,
Mrs. H. E. Merriman and Mrs. T. C.
Barnes alternated in serving.

A program of songs and piano selections by Mrs. O. A. Fly, piano soloist by Mrs. S. O. Woolls, and a toast to the teachers written and presented by Mrs. J. G. Newton, entertained during the afternoon.

HONDO H. D. CLUB

The Hondo Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. John Neuman on September 22. A business meeting was held in which exhibit day was discussed. The club decided to have a booth and show a well-set breakfast table Saturday.

Miss Hambleton demonstrated the different types of rugs, made out of rags and string, which add charm to any room.

Refreshments consisting of coffee and cake were served by Mrs. Neuman.

ATTEND FBI MEETING

One hundred forty nine vitally interested persons, one hundred forty of them southwest Texas Peace Officers, meeting in a body with officials of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, were explained their part in the FBI national mobilization plan when they gathered in San Antonio, September 18. Included in the group were Sheriff Chas. J. Schuehle and O. J. Bader of Medina County.

Colonel W. B. Tuttle, Chairman of the board of Directors, San Antonio Public Service Company, the principal speaker, stressed the citizens duties in national defense, particularly in view of the present national crisis. He declared that co-operation of local and state officers with the FBI is essential if this country is to protect its internal security.

"In a country as large as the United States it is almost impossible to have a completely organized national police force," he said.

"Therefore it is necessary that all local law enforcement co-operate with the Federal Officers," he explained.

Colonel Homer Garrison, head of the Texas Department of Public Safety, a speaker, declared that police forces, local, state and national,
must be able to face any emergency which develops, doing such a good job that there will be no necessity to call on "untrained posses and screwball vigilantes."

"In modern warfare such as we know in these times, it is as necessary for forces to be organized behind the lines as well as at the front," he said.

The speakers were introduced by
M. W. Acers, Acting Special Agent in Charge of the San Antonio Division of the FBI.

Acers speaking of the meeting stated, "This was the largest meeting we have had in Southwest Texas,
and the wholehearted cooperation,
together with the enthusiasm of all of the officers present, should re-assure the citizens that no fifth column will succeed in this country."

The "all out" attendance at this meeting, according to Acers, points out the tremendous increase in the interest of local and state officers who are responsible to such a great extent in this country's welfare.

Acers stated there were ten counties represented at this conference and the San Antonio session was the fifth in a series of ten conferences being conducted by the San Antonio
Office of the FBI throughout West
Central and South Texas.

Mrs. Bob Zerr, Mrs. Eliza B. Morin,
Miss Shirley Boehle, Mrs. Wm. Bendele, Mrs. R. F. Pfeil, Mrs. Wm.
Burger, Mrs. Horace Schweers, Mrs.
V. P. King, Mrs. Charles Wendland
and Mrs. Arthur Dale, are sewing.
Mrs. Roy Bohlén has taken charge of 100-yards of material to make diapers.

Mrs. R. E. Hague and Mrs. Walter Kirby from Devine have taken leisurely Women's Club. Mrs. L. L. Mc-charge of sewing by the Medina Valdermott accepted 18 pajamas, Mrs.
W. T. Mangum, 8 pajamas, and Mrs.
Mable Schlagle, shirts, for the Natalia group to sew.

Mrs. R. J. Mangold of LaCoste and her assistants will make fifty or more shirts and Mrs. Otto Jungman accepted fifty rompers for the Le-Coste H. D. Club to make.

Assisting with knitting and crocheting are Mrs. L. J. Brucks, Mrs.
C. C. Rogers, Mrs. F. D. Garrison, and Miss Eludith Ruth Love. Mrs.
John Love of Yancey has taken charge of forty "beanies".

voted to war relief work have been awarded Mrs. J. H. Burgin, Mrs. A.
H. Schweers, Mrs. Alfred Bader, Mrs.
F. H. Hollmig, Mrs. Harry Mueller,
Mrs. E. W. Lacy, Mrs. Jacob Reily,
Mrs. Felix Richter, Mrs. Charles
Filleman, Mrs. Felix Batot, Mrs.
Sudie Laughinghouse, Mrs. R. J.
Noonan, Mrs. Ada Travis, Mrs. Geo.
Kimmey, Mrs. Wm. Burger, Mrs.
Pat Lynch, Miss Mary Lee Bendele,
and Mrs. Geo. Woods of Devine.

Mrs. A. H. Schweers, the Red Cross chairman, wishes to take this means to thank all the volunteers for their generous response to the war relief need and to urge them to continue the good work. The Red Cross organization, through Mrs.
Schweers, especially extends its thanks and appreciation to Mrs. O.
H. Miller for the use of the Rothe building as Red Cross headquarters.

FSA COUNCILMEN ATTEND MEETING

Medina County Committeemen attending the District Meeting for Councilmen in San Antonio, September 16, were: Messrs. V. P. King,

Santleben of LaCoste, Charles H.
Harris and Henry Moss of Devine.
County personnel attending were Jack
R. Welhausen, Rural Supervisor and Miss Harriet Dickinson, Home Supervisor.

Approximately 120 councilmen and supervisors from the twenty counties of District VIII attended the meeting. W. J. Green, Assistant Regional Director and Gus Hill, Cooperative Specialist from Dallas led the discussion of "Causes of Rural Poverty" and what FSA can do to remedy the situation.

On September 17, a meeting for Farm Debt Adjustment Committees was held. Those attending were Messrs. King, Monkhouse, Rothe, Welhausen, and Miss Dickinson.
"Farm Debt Adjustment and Land Tenure" was the discussion topic.
Mr. Guion Gregg, State Farm Debt Adjustment Specialist, led the discussion.

RETURN FROM CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Bader and
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Tondre of D'Hanis attended the County Judges and Commissioners Convention in Laredo over the week-end. The Laredo Chamber of Commerce arranged for the entire convention to be guests of Monterrey, Mexico, from Saturday noon until Monday.

The Mexican Government gave a Military revue Saturday evening and that night a reception and banquet were held at the Casino. Sunday the guests were taken to the Mountains and that evening they attended a bull-fight.

HOW TO LOSE THE WAR

Much of the serious writing of the period is concerned with the world of the future—with the "new world" which will follow this war. Utopias of a hundred kinds are on order, to be delivered when the dictators are at last defeated.

Unfortunately, a good many idealists seem to regard the future as a thing complete in itself, which will have little connection with the present.

The truth is that the future can have no meaning, save in its relation to the past. We cannot talk of freedom and justice tomorrow, and disregard them today. We cannot win this war by building a gigantic military machine to defend us from invasion from without, and at the same time permit our liberties to be progressively destroyed from within.

For example, a peace-time Federal debt of nearly fifty billion dollars, exclusive of the war emergency, is something that must be taken into consideration before plans for the future can be laid with any certaint-
ty. Likewise, deliberate movements to undermine the free enterprise system, movements that have of late years made substantial progress, must be stemmed, if there is to be any future for us as a nation of free men. Representative government cannot be maintained without free enterprise. Studied efforts to social-ize or obtain dictatorial government domination over America's basic industries, such as power, mining, oil,
etc., must be stopped, because whether you like them or not, such basic industries are the keystone of our whole American system. If they ever become the patronage machines of a bureau-ridden central government, dreams of a better future for the individual in this land of ours, will be indeed idle.

Private enterprise in any field can be regulated. The abuse of private enterprises can be corrected and the abusers punished. But no one has yet found a solution to the problem of government grown too great—government abuses. The end result is always dictatorship for all.

This American future we talk about must be founded on the American present and past. It must be founded upon a system which has done more for the common man or woman than any other system the world ever knew. If we permit that system to be weakened and emasculated, we will lose this war without firing a shot. And we will deserve to lose it.—Industrial News Review.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Every community, whether it be a tiny village or a teeming metropolis, should at this time make fire prevention a headlined civic activity.

Fire prevention is vitally important at any time. In this period, when we are attempting to turn all national resources to defense purposes, its importance is magnified several times. Anyone can understand the menace of fire to defense factories
—one conflagration could delay vital production for months. And it should also be understood that the prevention of fire everywhere is a definite contribution to defense.
Materials and labor which are needed to rebuild a home or a barn or a place of business, cannot be used for defense work. The more fires we prevent, the fewer material shortages we will have—and the faster
the defense effort will go through to successful consummation.

Many organizations, of which the National Board of Fire Underwriters, New York City, is the leader, are doing everything conceivable to fight and prevent fire. The National Board, for instance, has given its full services, without charge, to the War and Navy departments, in order to prevent fires in army camps, na-

Wernette of Corpus Christi, president of the Texas Association of Life Underwriters, will be guest of honor and speaker at the first fall meeting of the Dallas Association of Life Underwriters at noon September 26. While in Dallas he will confer with officers of North Texas associations regarding activities of the state group.

Atascosa County Monitor.

Emil Reitzer made the Monitor a pleasant visit last Saturday afternoon. Just as Mr. Reitzer was about to leave the office, it was mentioned that he was a reader of Fletcher Davis' paper, the "Hondo Anvil Herald". Well, ? and Mr. Reitzer had another fine visit again as they reminisced of that splendid family—the Davises. Mr. Reitzer knew Mrs. Davis when she was a girl and a teacher in Medina county, and Mr. Davis from the time he came to Medina county as a school teacher and later became the owner of the Castrolville Anvil some forty years ago. Indeed it was a pleasure to chat with a person who likes and respects ?'s former bosses (for Mrs. Davis assisted Mr. Davis) so much.

Cedar bagworms, which are now destroying arborvitae, cedar and cypress, should be sprayed when first hatched with lead arsenate, using two or three level teaspoons to one gallon of water. Be sure the spray reaches all parts of the plant. But, says Sadie Hatfield, extension specialist in landscape gardening, as it perhaps is a little late to control the pest by poisoning, the bags should be picked off and burned. Better still, place them in a box covered with screen wire to keep young worms from crawling out next year. As the bagworm grows older it seems to develop resistance to poison. There is a parasite which lives with the pest and destroys it. But putting the bags in a screened box protected from rain, the newly hatched larvae will be prevented from escaping, but the parasite, which is very small, will escape through the meshes and attack bagworms outside. The pest is easily recognized. It makes a strong bag of soft waterproof silk, which is covered on the outside with bits of leaves and twigs. The worm lives inside during its life and at death leaves behind in the bag a large number of eggs which hatch out the next year.

Californians like Texas eggs, it seems. One out of every fourth Texas-laid egg "exported" to other states goes to California, a University of Texas Bureau of Business Research report shows. Out of the equivalent of 288 carloads of shell eggs shipped to other states during May, 78 went to California, the report reveals. New York and New Jersey each took 29 cars, Illinois 22. Egg shipments continue to rise, gaining 82 per cent over May, 1940, bureau officials said. Meanwhile, shipments of poultry to out-of-state points declined sharply—from 94 to 47 cars, a drop of 47 per cent. The May total was composed of 30 cars of chickens and 17 cars of turkeys.

WORLD'S GREAT FEATURES WITH MIGHTY CIRCUS

Famous Names Predominate In Ringling-Barnum List of Wonders

The Big Show—Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey—will exhibit in San Antonio, Friday, October 3, and here's a synopsis of its 1941 features:

Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua the Great, the world's most publicized and fascinating gorilla couple; the new fairyland fantasy, "Old King Cole and Mother Goose", designed and costumed by Norman Bel Geddes, of York World's Fair Futurama fame in which 2,000 people and animals take part. Geddes has redesigned the circus from front to back.

"Old King Cole and Mother Goose" cost $80,000, and is the grandest of all Big Show pageants; hence it is spotted on the program to follow Alfred Court's three great mixed groups of performing wild animals, so that late comers won't miss it. The new Birdland aerial ballet, starring lovely Elly Ardelt, costumed by Max Weldy of Paris and staged by Albertina Rasch, famed Hollywood and Broadway musical show dance director; an invasion of acts from South America, headed by the three flying Diego-Fernandez troupes; the great Truzzi, juggler; Hubert Castle, tight-wire star; the Yacopis, Gauchos and Divos, springboard somersaulting troupes; Adriana and Charly, trampoline stars; Mlle. Louisiana, flying trapeze marvel; the three flying Concello troupes, with Antionette; the famous Riding Cristiani family—in short, 800 world renowned artists. There are 1,600 people, 50 elephants, 1,009 menagerie animals and hundreds of horses.

RATTLERS MEET SOUTHEASTERN LOUISIANA IN ALAMO STADIUM SEPT. 27

San Antonio, Sept. 22.—Playing their last home game before four successive week-ends on the road, the St. Mary's University Rattlers will engage Southeastern Louisiana College Saturday afternoon, Sept. 27, in Alamo Stadium here.

The S. L. C. Lions will be anxious to notch their first victory of the season, as they dropped a decision to strong Southwestern Louisiana last Friday night 19-7. Southwestern is 1940 champion of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association of which Southeastern is a member also. The Rattlers will be trying to make it two in a row, having defeated Southwestern Oklahoma of Weatherford 13-0 on Sat., Sept. 13.

MY PRAYER

The road lies long and deep with dust. One of the team is lame, I can not go to church today To praise your holy name.

The many chores that must be done, The meal to cook for busy men, A hundred things one can not shun If hungry mouths be fed—and then Upon this lovely Easter morn, the bells Their holy message share, But I must toil and smile the while— Dear Lord, is that a prayer?

HONDO OWLS SMASH WARHORSES

From The Owl:

Last Friday night the Owls journeyed to Devine to engage in their first game of the 1941 football season, and they came out victorious. Starting off the season in high style, the Hondo Owls beat the Devine Warhorses 33-0.

The boys played an exceptionally good game and here is hoping that they keep up the good work. Their next battle will be with the Cotulla Cowboys next Friday, September 26. Let us all try to see the game and cheer the Owls on to victory.

Following is the play by play description of their game with Devine:

First Quarter

The Owls kicked off to Devine's 15-yd. line. After no gain in three plays, Devine punted to Hondo's 32-yd. line. Hollmig went over left tackle for 6 yards, but Hondo was penalized 5 yards for offside. Dawson went around right end for 15 yards. Finger went around left end for 10 yards and a first down. The Owls then failed on a pass effort. After another incompleting pass, Dawson went over center for 8 yards. Then Hollmig punted to Devine's 13-yd. line. The punt was returned to Devine's 19-yd. line. They then quick-kicked to Hondo's 33-yd. line. After another incomplete pass by the Owls, Hollmig went over left guard and center for a first down. Dawson then took it around right end for 6 yards, and Finger in the same play made a first down. Dawson again advanced for 5 yards. Hollmig then went over right guard for 30 yards and a touchdown. Dawson missed the try for the extra point.

Finger kicked off to the Devine 20-yd. line, and they returned the ball to the 29-yd. line. Then the Owls received two 5-yard penalties. Devine, after no gain, punted to the 50-yd. line. Hollmig then went over center for 9 yards, and Dawson made a first down over right tackle. Finger broke loose on the next play and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. Finger then kicked the extra point.

Hollmig kicked off for the Owls to the Devine 20-yd. line and it was returned to the 34-yd. line. Devine received a 15-yard penalty for clipping on the next play. Devine tried to punt, but it was blocked and caught by Britsch, who crossed the goal for another touchdown. The try for the extra point was no good. This last play brought the first quarter to a close. Score: Hondo 19; Devine 0.

Second Quarter

Hollmig kicked off to Devine's 13-yd. line and the ball was returned by Devine to the 23-yd. line. After four downs and little gain, the ball went to Hondo on downs. Hollmig then carried the ball over center for 9 yards and with a complete pass it was a first down again for the Owls. The Owls then failed to complete three passes and Ney went around left end for no gain. The ball went to Devine on downs. On the third down Devine kicked to Ney, who returned the ball to Devine's 48-yd. line. Hollmig went over right tackle twice for a first down. Dawson made 5 yards on the next play. Then Hollmig made 3 yards over right tackle, and Ney was good for 1 yard. Next came an incomplete pass to Groff. On the following play Devine intercepted a pass, but was nailed on the spot. Then Devine punted to their own 30-yd. line. The Owls completed a pass to Graff for 9 1-2 yards but the next one was incomplete, thus ending the first half. Score: Hondo 19; Devine 0.

Third Quarter

Finger kicked off to Devine's goal, and it was returned to their 10-yard line. After three downs and no gain, they punted to Dawson who got loose for a touchdown. Finger kicked the extra point.

Hollmig kicked off to Devine's 20-yd. line and Devine returned it only 10 yards. Ney went around left end for 5 yards, while Dawson in two tries made 3 yards. The next play was an incomplete pass. Hollmig went over center for 5 yards and Baker through right guard for 1 yard. Dawson made 2 yards on the next play and the ball went over to Devine on downs. After gaining 7 yards, Devine punted to their own 30-yard line. Dawson went around left end for 20 yards and a first down. The next play was a complete pass to Britsch on the 7-yd. line. On the next play Hollmig smashed through center for a touchdown, and then kicked the extra point.

Hollmig then kicked off to Devine's 5-yd. line. They returned it to the 10-yd. line, ending the third quarter. Score: Hondo 33; Devine 0.

Fourth Quarter

Devine punted to the Owls. On the first play Dawson lost 1 yard and then Ney made 3 yards. Hollmig then made 3 more yards. The Owls threw an incomplete pass and Devine took over the ball. After making no gain they punted to the Owl's 45-yd. line, where Ney received it and ran back 10 yards to their 45-yd. line. Hollmig then gained 15 yards, and on the next play Dawson fumbled and Devine recovered. During the remaining few plays the ball was in the possession of Devine. As the ball went over to the Owls, however, the game ended. Score: Hondo 33; Devine 0.

INFORMATION FOR SELECTEES

Registrants who contemplate resuming attendance at school this month should first consult their local boards to ascertain approximately how soon they may be called for military training. General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, announced today.

While deferments from military training are being granted students who are preparing to enter certain occupations in which shortages of manpower exist or are indicated, General Page said, there are no group or blanket deferments. Each case must be acted upon individually by the local board having jurisdiction, and unless a student can qualify as a "necessary man" under Selective Service Regulations he is liable to be called for induction when his order number is reached. He said:

"It is the policy of the Selective Service System to be as lenient as possible within the law in cases of young men who are earnestly pursuing educational opportunities, even though they are not seeking to qualify for an occupation that is exceptionally important for National Defense. My advice to these young men, therefore, is to consult with their local boards and find out when they probably will be called to qualify for military training. If the probability is more remote than three months or so, they may begin their studies with the understanding that they can at least complete one semester. In the same way it may seem probable, according to their order numbers, that they can complete a full year."

The general policy, General Page said, will be one of cooperation between the student and his local board with the object of not causing a sudden interruption of studies or financial loss to the student through inability to continue through a semester for which tuition has been paid. This, he said, can be accomplished by the student consulting with his local board before commencing a semester and by the local board granting a stay of induction until the end of such period to a student who is called for military training.

There are a number of specialized professions, General Page pointed out, for which students who give reasonable promise of becoming acceptable practitioners are being deferred on recommendation of the Office of Production Management. Procedure for the deferment of such students has been worked out by the American Council of Education in collaboration with National Selective Service Headquarters. It is set forth in Bulletin

No. 10, issued by the Council, and provides for getting into the hands of the local board of a "Student Statement of Information" concerning his status and plans, and an affidavit by his college or university in which the college officials testify as to his standing, courses and occupational objectives, together with a general evaluation of the student as a "necessary man" for occupational deferment.

BIG GAME COMING

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 23.—With Fall and football in the air, widespread interest is being shown throughout South Texas in the big-time college game scheduled for 8 P. M. Saturday, October 4, in San Antonio between the formidable Texas Aggies, co-champions of the Southwest Conference, and the confident, hard-driving Javalinas of Texas A. & I.

The game to be played in the beautiful, new Alamo Stadium, one of the nation's model stadiums, is a non-profit civic project sponsored by the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce to provide a first class football attraction for the football fans of South Texas. The program started as an experiment by the Chamber last year proved so popular with South Texas fans that the Aggie-A. & I. game was arranged this season, and other games are planned for the future.

Tickets for the game are now on sale at the Municipal Auditorium, Potchernick's and Tankersley's in the Alamo City. Mail orders should be addressed to the Football Committee, Chamber of Commerce, San Antonio. These orders will be filled promptly in the order of their reception. Tickets are priced lower than the regular Southwest Conference scale. For instance, only one center section on each side of the stadium is reserved for $2.20 tickets, leaving approximately 7,000 excellent reserved seats between the goal lines at only $1.65. In addition, there are over 10,000 unreserved general admission seats priced at $1.10 to the general public. These general admission seats will be sold to students and soldiers in uniform for 55 cents.

ALONE

If we must dwell apart like stars
Or drift alone, like cast off spars;
In separate constellations set
Upon life's tide of sore regret;
What is there that can e'er atone
If we must go our way,—alone?

ANOTHER SAILOR HEARD FROM

Sept. 17, 1941
San Diego, Calif.
U. S. Naval Training Sta.
Mr. O. J. Bader,
Dear Sir:

Figured it was about time I was writing you a letter on how I made the trip and what I am doing. Well, I got to Houston the night I left you, went to the Recruit Sta. at Houston, passed and they shipped us out that night at 9:55 P. M. on the Sunset Limited which we never got to get off of but two or three places between Houston and California, and we arrived in San Diego, Sunday night about 9:30 P. M., then they put us through the receiving unit then the next two days we were getting hair cuts and clothes and getting our company together which is Co. No. 115. After forming our Co. the Commander, Mr. Pierce appointed the recruit C. P. O. and the two Master of Arms, which are police petty officers, third class, which I am one in the first platoon. He also appointed our yeoman and four other P. O.'s who are squad leaders. I am still holding my job up to now but, boy, it sure is a job playing nursemaid to 144 men and then doing my own work besides. Although I have been lucky, I guess. I have not had to do any drilling much, that is so far. I don't know what to expect next. Everybody around here calls the other fellow "Mack". Mack is the fellow who does everything wrong, or the new recruit. I will not be able to leave this camp on liberty for five weeks if I pass everything. I have to stay in the Detention Unit for two weeks more then I get to go to the North Unit for three more weeks.

I saw Anthony and Jerome and Bounds, and they are doing good. All the boys in Anthony's Co. seem to like him very much. They all asked me what had happened at home since they left. I did not get to see Tommie Danie or Jack Schorp yet. I saw Finger at Reg. Hdq. last night while on P. O. Guard duty and he said that he had got to see them. This is about all I know to write at present but will write you later on. Would appreciate hearing from you because letters are about all the enjoyment I get out of this camp at present.

With this I'm signing off, wishing you the best of luck.

Yours truly,
JESSE LEROY CROW,

RECENT BRIDE HONORED

The Armstrong Hotel was the scene of a linen shower and tea from two to five o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 21, in honor of Mrs. R. C. Sheffield, who was Miss Lorine Neuman prior to her recent marriage. Hostesses were Mrs. Sam Neuman, Mrs. Alfred Neuman, Mrs. Herbert Saathoff, Mrs. Stanley Saathoff, Mrs. Adolph Bayer, Mrs. Fritz Moebius, Mrs. Ervin Bendele, Mrs. Joe Brucks, Mrs. Vivian Neuman, Miss Lenora Mann and Miss Elsie Boehle.
The high school colors of blue and white were carried out in the decorations, Mrs. Sheffield having graduated from Hondo High School. Mrs. Bayer and Mrs. Sam Neuman greeted the guests at the door and the receiving line, composed of the honoree and her mother, Mrs. John E. Neuman, formed in the patio. The guests registered in a beautiful white silk heart-shaped bride's book, edged with white lace and tied with blue and white ribbons showered with tiny white hearts. The book was hand-made and hand-embroidered by Mrs. Clarence Dailey and was presented to the bride by her mother. Miss Mann and Miss Boehle presided over the book.
The many beautiful and useful gifts were displayed in the reception room, where Miss Boehle, Mrs. Moebius and Mrs. Bendele welcomed the guests.
The tea table, laid with a lace cloth, was centered with a low crystal bowl of blue plumbago, roses and fern. Refreshments of cheese sandwiches, angel food cake, mints, and iced tea were served. Mrs. Stanley Saathoff and Mrs. Herbert Saathoff presided at the tea table. The other hostesses assisted.
Mrs. Sheffield wore a navy blue and white dress and Mrs. John E. Neuman was in black and white. Their corsages were pink rosebuds.
A large number of friends called during the afternoon.

FORMER TEACHER WEDS

Miss Katherine Lucille Johnson, for three years a teacher in Hondo High School, became the bride of Fred William Kingdon Jr. of Austin at the First Methodist Church in San Marcos Sunday, Sept. 14. Dr. Gaston Hartsfield of Cropus Christi read the ceremony. The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Johnson and the late Lloyd G. Johnson, of San Marcos. Mr. Kingdon is the son of Fred W. Kingdon and the late Mrs. Nell Gammel Kingdon of Austin.
Mrs. W. L. Barber, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. The bride's uncle, Herbert D. Holcombe, gave her in marriage. Best man was Lloyd G. Johnson Jr., of Houston, brother of the bride.
Mr. and Mrs. Kingdon left for a motor trip and will be at home after Sept. 20 in Ballinger, Texas.

The bride is a graduate of San Marcos High School and of the Southwest Texas State Teachers' College. The bridegroom attended Austin High School and is a graduate of Schreiner Institute at Kerrville. He is an instructor for the Civilian Pilots' Training Course under Civil Aeronautics Association of S. W. T. C. in San Marcos. At Ballinger he will serve as a civilian instructor for the United States Army Air Corps.

WEDDING OF LOCAL INTEREST

On Sunday, September 14, 1941, Miss Vernell Joyce Mumme of Hondo was united in holy wedlock to Mr. Victor Oehler of San Antonio, Texas. The ceremony was performed at 9:30 o'clock A. M. by the Rev. R. F. Davis of the Hondo Methodist Church at the church parsonage.
The bride was dressed in a simple suit of black, with white trimming, and wore black suede accessories. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. H. E. Neuman, while Mr. H. E. Neuman served as best man.
Immediately after the ceremony, the wedding party retired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brucks, where they and a large number of relatives and friends were later served with a luncheon.
Mrs. Oehler is the second youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mumme of this community, and Mr. Oehler is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Oehler of Fredericksburg, Texas.

The young couple will make their home in San Antonio, where Mr. Oehler is connected with the Southern Pecan Shelling Company in the capacity of bookkeeper.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF SE. BASTIAN RIEBER, DECEASED

By His Son, E. S. Rieber

While this may be a precedent for a son to write a short sketch of the life of his father, I feel it is alright to do so, if and when he feels that it would have been the wish of the deceased to do so.

Born of pioneer parents, Edward Rieber and Mary (Kempf) Rieber, at D'Hanis, on Oct. 25, 1867, he himself saw considerable of the pioneer life and hardships that were the lot of our predecessors. His father came to the United States from Alsace and saw service in the Civil War at New Orleans. He was the oldest of a family of five boys and one girl, Mrs. Emil Carle, deceased. The brothers who survive him are George of Sabinal, Louis of the Upper Seco and Joe and John of D'Hanis.

Depredations by the Indians were almost a thing of the past in the early days of his life, but he would recall the time when his father would shoot from the window of his house at Indians in the act of stealing horses.

Left without a mother when but a boy, my father went to work on a ranch for Ross Kennedy, Sr. at Sabinal. He weathered this very well, for, instead of being mothered and educated, he had to lead the hard life of the pioneers on the ranges. And while he did not have the guiding hand of a mother, he grew to manhood with sterling qualities. His education was meager but he managed to learn for himself so that he could carry on his business and keep up with the trend of daily, world events.

On November 26, 1891, he married Miss Louisa Monier. To this union were born, three boys: Edgar, Henry (deceased) and Harold, and two girls, Cora and Ruby.

Had he lived until Nov. 26th of this year, Mr. and Mrs. Rieber would have been married fifty years. Plans for the celebration of their golden wedding had already been under way.

For thirteen years, the family lived near Sabinal where my father was engaged in farming. In 1913 the family moved back to Medina County and engaged in ranching until 1928 when he moved to Hondo retiring from active work.

As his son, I can truly say that Mr. Rieber was a good father and a devoted husband. He raised not only his own family but helped rear others of near kin. He was kind, honest, patient and dutiful. He never engaged in quarrels; therefore, did not have an enemy but many friends and above all loved his Creator.

His body lies at rest in the Hondo cemetery. His family feels deeply grateful for all the help during his funeral and especially to Father Garcia for the consoling words and splendid tribute he paid him.

In conclusion, I wish to leave this thought and a wish that shall remain with me for the rest of my days, that it is my greatest ambition to emulate his life.

Miss Rica Saathoff has returned to San Antonio to resume her nurse's training at Santa Rosa Hospital after spending two weeks' vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Saathoff. While here she entertained with a shower for the former Glenrose Brucks, the personnel including a few close friends of the honoree.

Mrs. Ted McAdams and baby are leaving today for their home in Los Angeles, Calif., after an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Moore. Mrs. McAdams was formerly Miss Irma Bell Moore.

Mrs. James Knapp and little daughter, Gail Ellis, left Saturday for their home in Stamford, Texas, after a several weeks' visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fingler.

ALBERT REITZER DEAD

Albert Reitzer departed this life at his home in Quihi at 9:15 P. M. Wednesday, September 24, 1941, after an illness of about two weeks. Funeral services were held at the Henger funeral home at Hondo at three o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. Paul Czerkus of St. Paul's Lutheran Church conducting the last sad rites. Interment was made in the Quihi cemetery with F. J. Schulte of Mico, Otto Reitzer of Yancey, Geo. Reitzer of Hondo, Theo. Reitzer of Dunlay, Arthur Schulte of Dunlay, and Melvin Balzen of Dunlay serving as pall-bearers.

Mr. Reitzer was born at Quihi on December 26, 1866, and had attained the age of 74 years, eight months and 29 days at the time of his demise. He grew to manhood on his father's farm, and spent his manhood years in the same occupation and in the community of his birth, where he lived the life of an exemplary citizen, enjoying the love of his family and the respect of his neighbors.

Mr. Reitzer is survived by his bereaved wife and an only son, Hugo Reitzer. Five brothers and two sisters and numerous other relatives survive him. The brothers are Henry Reitzer of Yancey, Emil Reitzer of Jourdan, Louis Reitzer of San Antonio, George Reitzer of California and Edmund Reitzer of Arizona. The sisters are Mrs. Joe Balzen of Dunlay and Mrs. Henry Schulte Sr. of Dunlay.

In the passing of Albert Reitzer, the managing editor loses another personal friend, a man whom he came to know and respect in the early days of his arrival in Medina County and whose friendship he enjoyed through the passing years. We know the sense of loss that comes to others of his friends in his departure.

County Superintendent C. F. Schweers has requested that we announce that Governor Coke R. Stevenson has proclaimed October 5th to October 11th as United China Relief Week, and every man, woman and child is being urged to make some contribution to this very needy cause. School children and teachers of Texas will hear the Macedonian cry of the people of China and will make the best contribution it is possible for them to make, in order to give the suffering Chinese something to eat and wear and medicine for the sick. For further particulars see Mr. Schweers.

Among the County officials who attended the County Judges and Commissioners Convention at Laredo over the week-end were Commissioner and Mrs. Robert Rihn of LaCoste and Commissioner and Mrs. Fred Bowman of Devine. The latter couple also visited in Monterey, Mexico.

Aaron Boehle and Hobby Schuchle returned Sunday from a trip to El Reno, Oklahoma, where they trucked four government-purchased horses for use in the army. They visited in Clinton, Okla., before turning homeward and stopped at Verron, Texas, where they picked up two horses to carry to Hondo.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You

No. 31 of a Series

SOME PEOPLE NEVER LEARN... but most of them do!

There are always a few "smart alecks" who want to stand up and rock the boat. But most people try to keep out of trouble.

The same sort of thing happens in the retailing of beer. The great majority of beer retail establishments are clean, law-abiding and wholesome. But occasionally you may find a "smart aleck" retailer who violates the law or permits anti-social conditions.

We of the brewing industry want these anti-social retailers wiped out! Because they imperil your right to drink good beer...and our right to make it.

We want to protect the benefits that beer has brought to Texas—employment for 31,165 persons since relegalization, an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and taxes of $2,273,968.64 paid to the state last year.

This state, too, has an important stake in Beer's purchases from over 100 industries supplying the brewing industry with materials, equipment and services.

You can help us in our public-spirited program by (1) patronizing only reputable and legal beer establishments and (2) by reporting any irregularities you may see to the proper authorities.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

During the past week the strike situation furnished observers here with ample opportunities for speculation, and comment was generally of the "where-do-we-go-from-here" variety. Although few people are talking for publication, there is considerable discussion as to whether or not the recent rise in strikes will revive Congressional demands for restrictive legislation.

In this connection it is recalled that the Vinson bill, which provides for a 25-day cooling off period, among other things, was reported out of the House Naval Affairs Committee on April 21, but no action was ever taken on it. Although it is too early to forecast accurately whether this will be revived, the fact is noted here with growing concern that strikes have increased five-fold within a year and are now 44 per cent above the average for the five-year period from 1935 through 1939.

—WSS—
Coupled with this speculation is the feeling in many quarters that the government may have set an unfortunate precedent in seizing the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company at Kearny, N. J. Behind closed doors many of those familiar with the situation declare that the Board itself realizes this and may soon issue a statement to keep other unions from using the Kearny settlement as an argument in demanding universal enforcement of the closed shop principle.

—WSS—
Recent reports from abroad that British armament needs will be increased, together with the fact that American defense requirements are also growing, have kept the entire defense production situation squarely in the limelight this week.

In some quarters the usual charges are being made that American industrial output has bogged down. Actually that is not the case, and these who are really in the know are the first to admit that, far from having decreased, production has steadily risen. That it falls short of meeting current demands is due to the fact that those demands have been raised again and again. Original estimates were extremely low in comparison with production in other countries that could have served as a model for us, and, while they have been increased from time to time, each increase has made necessary a revision of production schedules. Had the original estimates been the correct ones, observers here insist that one of the main causes of production delays would never have occurred.

—WSS—
When discussing delays, informed persons on the sidelines point to the growing shortage of available raw materials. Indications now are that the country will soon be asked to support more drives like that for collecting aluminum. Iron and steel scrap, wool and cotton rags and scrap rubber are among the products that are already receiving consideration in this connection.

—WSS—
According to some sources, the scrap supply of the steel industry is barely enough for existing production, to say nothing of the projected addition to it occasioned by increased defense needs. Present figures indicate that a possible shortage of 6,000,000 tons of scrap will have to be made up somehow if the steel industry is to meet a production goal of 102,000,000 tons this year.

—WSS—
Although no official drive has yet been launched for scrap collection, reports here indicate that many industrial firms throughout the country are taking the initiative and are already inaugurating collection programs of their own. A case in point is furnished by one large steel company which recently bought 8,400 tons of iron that were gathered during a three-day campaign which the company sponsored.

—WSS—
One of the current measures to preserve Army morale that is viewed with a great deal of interest around efforts that numerous companies throughout the country are making to keep in touch with their employees who have entered the Service. Company newspapers are devoting considerable space to news of the boys in the armed forces, and company officials often endeavor to maintain personal contact through letters.

While it is impossible for companies to give iron-clad guarantees that employees will be rehired, since their volume of business may decrease under the impact of the defense program, such efforts to maintain employee-employer relationships evidence the good faith with which industry is tackling one phase of the current morale-building campaign.

DAILY LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Monday, September 22, 1941
San Antonio, Sept. 22.—HOGS, Estimated salable and total receipts 800. The week's initial session found hog sales developing on an active basis at steady prices compared with last week Friday. Most good and choice 180-270 lb. butchers cashed at the day's top of $11.50. Comparable grade 160-180 lbs. made $11.00-11.50. Sows bulked at $10.25-10.50. Under broad feeder pig demands, most offerings scaling under 160 lbs. moved into replacement channels at firm prices. The majority of good and choice cashed at $10.00-10.50.

CATTLE: Estimated salable and total receipts 1,300; CALVES 2,000. All classes of cattle met an active release Monday with prices ruling steady to stronger. Slaughter steers and yearlings again were scarce. Common and medium yearlings brought $7.50-9.50 with odd lots good at $10.40-10.50.

Broad demands placed canner and cutter cows strong to 25c higher while beef kinds held fully steady. Common to good offering secured $6.25-7.50 while canners and cutters bulked at $4.50-6.00. Only occasional canners dropped to $4.00. Sausage bulls carried a firm trend at $6.50-7.50. All buying interests sought killer calves at steady to strong rates. Good and choice selections ranged from $9.75-11.00 with most deals at $10.00-10.75. Common and medium consignments changed hands at $7.50-9.50 and only few culls dropped below $7.00.

Stockers and feeders sold mainly steady to strong with instances 25c higher. Good and choice steer calves made $10.50-12.50 with odd lots choice lightweights to $13.00. Comparable grade heifer calves secured $10.00-11.00 and a few head to $11.50 or above. Good and choice yearlings cashed at $10.50-11.00. A short load 1059 lb. feeder steers changed hands at $9.65.

SHEEP: Estimated salable and total receipts 1,000. Offerings in the sheep division found moderately active outlets at fully steady prices. Good and choice freshly shorn aged wethers brought $5.25-5.50. Shorn ewes secured $4.50-5.00 and aged bucks went at $4.00. A spread of $3.50-4.00 took slaughter goats with culls at $2.00-2.50. Stocker goats on country account realized $4.00.

BLUE BONNET BABE
Dedicated to the wonderful State of Texas

(Words and music copyrighted)
The Texas fields are blue as Heaven
With flowers of azure hue,
I'm thinking of that Texas morn
When I first met my Sue.

Cho. Blue Bonnet Babe, I am sighing,
Longing to see you again.
Blue Bonnet Sue, I am crying
Alone on the coast of Maine.

Celestial blooms make my world bright,
They speak to me of love.
An angel's robe could never be Like my own Texas dove.

Cho. Blue Bonnet Babe, I adore you
Texas has filled you with charm,
Blue Bonnet Sue, I implore you
Stay while I keep you from harm.

TERRACING PROGRAM FOR MEDINA COUNTY

Terracing is finally coming into its own in Medina County, V. P. King, chairman of the Medina County AAA committee, announced this week.

According to information from the state office, College Station, the conservation materials and services phase of the AAA program has been enlarged to include terracing under the 1942 farm program, he said.

This phase of the AAA program, designed to assist farmers in carrying out more soil-building practices, already makes it possible for them to obtain phosphate, Austrian winter peas, common, hairy and Willamette vetch with costs of the materials being deducted from future payments. Similar arrangements will be in effect on the terracing program, King pointed out.

With more emphasis placed on soil-building practices under the 1942 program than ever before is probably an indication that future appropriations will be more contingent upon the amount of soil-building practices carried out, the AAA chairman explained.

The conservation materials and services program may result in difficulties in securing necessary seeds and supplies and terracing is being added to help farmers in earning maximum soil-building assistance.

In explaining the terracing program in Medina county, the county chairman said that if demand is sufficient, the county committee will let bids to contractors to build terraces for cooperating farmers. The contracts will be let on a 100-foot basis and contractors will be paid by the AAA after the terraces are completed.

Under this phase of the program, farmers may use 70 percent of their total payments, less any previous assignments, for terracing.

Medina county farmers who wish to participate in the terracing program should file their requests in the county office in order that the demand might be ascertained, the AAA official said.

WHO COULD IT BE BUT YOU

Protector in my infant days,
Defender as I grew,
Forgiver of my foolish ways,
Who could it be but you?

Companion in my later days,
Beloved and ever true,
A guiding hand in all my ways,
No matter how I grew.

That friend in all those boyhood days
The best I ever knew,
The pilot of my wandering ways,
Yes, Mother, it was you.

Where God's foundations are.

In spirit I am lifted
To where the sunrise hurls
Its gleams upon the morning
Like glistening sprays of pearls.

And away above the clamor
Of earth's hot grasping hand,
I find the heart of healing,
In God's own mountainland.

Men Marooned

By GEORGE MARSH

They had not traveled a hundred yards when, directly in front of the invisible team, sounded Shot's raw challenge. There was an impact of hard bodies, Castor's snarl of rage, Pollux's roar, followed by the bedlam of huskies fighting. Into the melee of enraged dogs tangled in their traces of the sled, with the handle of his sled the dog-dog clubbed, the bearded Guthrie ran to the rescue of the sled, who for some inexplicable reason had attacked Castor. Mercilessly swinging the heavy butt of the whip, calling the dogs by name, he blindly fought to free the offending sled from the knife-like fangs of Castor and Pollux. A heaving mass of snapping jaws, the huskies, mad with excitement, tripped, hampered by their traces, were slashing wildly in the dark at their enemy and each other.

At last, taking a slash which ripped the sleeve of his parka as he reached in, Guthrie got Shot's collar with one hand and lifting the struggling dog while he clubbed the others back, dragged him from the milling team. Attempting to follow, Castor fell stunned by a blow on the skull, and Guthrie was free from the infuriated team, unable, enmeshed in their traces, to drag the sled in pursuit of the alreale who fought in Guthrie's arms to return to the battle.

"Oh, what has happened?" called Joan Quarrier's frightened voice. "It was too awful. What started them?" "It's all right, I've got Shot and he's not cut much. He'll cool off in a minute. For some reason he piled in on Castor."

"Attacked Castor?" Guthrie led his dog to the tail of the sled where he made him fast. "Yes, he must have howled Castor over on the run. Of course that started the team. But it's so dark I doubt if any of them are hurt much. They couldn't see to strike—and their traces saved him. He's got two on the shoulder but they're not deep."

"The girl was off the sled and soothed the alreale trembling with the heat of the fight."

"I'll straighten out the dogs now. They don't care for this whip-handle." "I could hear the blows," she said. "I hurt, but I suppose it was the only way."

"They'd have killed Shot, if they got him down. I had to get him out of it quickly," Guthrie explained, and calming his excited dogs, soon had them on their feet with straightened traces. Castor, Guthrie's favorite, who had taken the bulk of the blows, found the hand of his master with his tongue as he rubbed against Guthrie's leg. Guthrie rumbled the ears of the trembling Enzava.

"Poor old boy! It wasn't your fault, was it, if Shot went crazy? Don't blame you a bit, old man. I had to do it, but it's forgotten. Isn't it? Yes, old Castor!" With a pat of the massive skull, Guthrie went to soothe the still excited Pollux, and the rest. But all the while his brain was busy with the strange action of the alreale. They were close to the sled. Shot had found—killed—something, and refused to share it with the approaching team. But why did he have it?

With Shot lashed to the tail of the sled, and the heat of the combat cooled in the blood of the huskies through the soothing tones of the master's voice and the touch of his hand, Guthrie again called to his lead dog.

REDEEM COTTON PLEDGES NOW

Medina county cotton producers in 1938, 1939, and 1940 loan cotton have until October 1, 1941, to pay loans and redeem cotton pledged to V. P. King, chairman of the Medina county AAA committee, has announced.

All cotton not redeemed by this time will be placed in pools as provided by the loan agreement and sold by the Commodity Credit Corporation after March 1, 1942.

Unredeemed cotton from each crop will be placed in separate pools with producers retaining title. When cotton is sold in each pool, net proceeds will be distributed among producers in proportion to their acreage, King said. The net proceeds, if any, would be distributed after deduction of all advances and accrued costs, including storage, insurance and handling charges.

When unredeemed cotton is placed in the pool, the AAA official said, payments will be made to producers and it cannot be sold during the time it is in the pool.

Recent reports indicate that Texas cotton growers have 77,047 bales of cotton outstanding on the 1938 crop of 360,135 bales on the 1940 crop. Producers who are interested in redeeming their cotton before October 1, 1941, it is possible it will not be sold at some time after March 1, 1942, King said.

"Marche, Castor!"

As the sled started, the alreale broke into furious barking. Puzzled, Guthrie turned back. "What's the matter, Shot?"

The dog was clearly excited about something. With a whimper he rose on his hind legs and pawed the man's chest in dumb attempt to communicate the reason for his protest.

"What is it, old boy? What's over on that shore you don't want us to see?"

"Tell me, Shot," called the girl, and the dog left Guthrie to go to her but was stopped by his leash.

"It's more than queer," said Guthrie. "It's uncanny. Well, I've got to find that shore to make a fresh start. Now, Shot, be quiet, will you?"

Again the driver called, "Marche, Castor!"

The dogs leaned into their collars and the sled started, but from its tall rose the howls of the protesting Shot.

"Good Lord, I've got to look into this! I'll be back shortly." And, stopping his team, Guthrie walked into the murk.

He had advanced but a short distance, doubled over the ice, feeling his way with his moccasins, when he stopped, as a chill like the touch of a cold wind, cut through him.

"Tide crack!" he gasped. Within a step of the gray blur of ice on which he stood, a black streak, fading into the enveloping gloom, barred his way. "We're in the river mouth."

Among the tide cracks—Etienne warned me! Shot—old Shot, God bless him—he knew!

Shot's actions were clear enough now. Coming upon the open water toward which the sled was hurrying, the alreale had returned on the bound, barking a warning as he came. Then, as the dogs came on at a trot, Shot had catapulted into Castor, starting a fight and—stopping the sled. Stunned, struck with remorse, Guthrie crouched on the lip of the gash in the river ice, into which dogs, sled—all of them, would have blindly plunged but for Shot's mad attack on the team.

To have led her to this—a hideous death with the dogs drawn under by the drag of the sled. And Etienne had warned him of the tide cracks in the river mouths. He had intended making a wide swing around the Kapiskan, but in his search for the beach, had entered the river. But Shot, staunch old warrior that he was, had through some uncanny instinct sensed their danger and taken the only method of stopping the team.

Putting her trust in Guthrie, Shot had saved her. He turned back to the team, thrilled with pride in the dog who worried at his leash. The love of the man for his dog had been cemented by yet one more bond. Shot had saved her for Guthrie!

"What did you find?" she asked as he reached the sled.

"I learned that we'll have to back-track straight east," he said calmly. "Why, aren't we heading for the shore?"

"Yes, but we've got to get out of this river. When I strike the sea-ice, I'm going to circle, hit the coast, and give you some rest."

"But we ought to keep on." "Not in this blackness. It's as thick as Flemish rain in March. I've got to lead the team," he did not add, "to watch for water ahead."

Unleashing Shot, whom he hugged as he mumbled for a space into a hairy ear, Guthrie sent the alreale out as an advance patrol. He had found water once, he would find it again if they stumbled upon another tide crack. Leading Castor on a leash, he started straight east for the sea-ice.

For an hour they walked, Shot ranging ahead while Guthrie, bent forward, eyes on the ice and his compass dial, cautiously followed. Fearful of not yet having cleared the river mouth, he led his dogs for another hour, then circled into the northwest and found the shore above Kapiskan. There he fed his dogs, cut willow and alder, and with his cedar kindling set a fire going to boil the kettles. As soon as it lightened enough to follow the coast, they would start afresh for Elkwan. After the Kapiskan, the tenuous delta of the Attawapiskat was not to be thought of.

As Joan Quarrier sat by the comforting heat in the willow thicket, Guthrie told her the story which he had kept from her while he groped through the water traps of the river mouth.

She sat with parted lips, her serious eyes suspiciously bright, as Guthrie explained why Shot had hurled himself on the team.

"And you never told me what you found when you left me?" "Why scare you? It was bad enough as it was."

She shook her head in protest. "You call me a soldier, and treat me as a woman."

"You are a woman to me—too precious to take out on a night like this and drive into a tide crack," he replied, watching the light of the fire play on her brooding eyes.

For answer she called: "Come here, Shot—to me. I want to kiss you."

"The alreale rose, stretched, yawned, and wagged his way to her. "There," I'll never forget what you did tonight. You deserve the V. C."

With a grunt, Shot thrust his nose toward her hood.

"Look out, he's trying to return the kiss," warned the man who envied his dog.

Her white teeth flashed in amusement. "You may, Shotty, on the cheek, for you're a brave and gallant gentleman."

"And the other brave and gallant gentlemen—are they to be ignored?"

At Castor's snarl, and—his—ave and infant master, to share in our salute, oh men general?"

"This general decorates but one hero tonight and that is Shot," he replied archly. "His devotion has been proved."

"And mine?" "She would not meet his eyes. 'Oh, my friend,' she parried, 'we have work before us—a bitter fight for the life of a brave man. Why think of ourselves?'"

In the lee of the sled, tipped on its side, its canvas cover stretched above her like a shed tent to reflect the heat of the fire, Joan Quarrier slept, warm in her robes, until waked by the cracking of the fire at dawn.

"Good morning, Healer of Wounds. The tea is almost ready; the bacon done; the bread cut. Will you wash your face and hands in the snow, and partake of the bounties set before you on these beautiful plates of tin?"

Through sleepy eyes the girl smiled up at the man who had labored for her comfort. "You are very good to your passenger, Mr. Etienne. I shall recommend this line to all who contemplate a night voyage up this coast."

"We ought to make Elkwan by noon. I wonder what we'll find," he said, pouring the hot tea.

"Whatever we find, Maj. Garth Guthrie, you have squared your debt."

"But I Almost Lost You."

No man could have done more for his friend."

"But I almost lost you—" "That would have been the fortune of war."

"And the irony of fate, with Etienne and poor Guthrie waiting up there at Elkwan for two who never came."

CHAPTER XIII

At noon, that day, a lone figure stood in the snow on the clearing at Elkwan and searched the river-ice below the post. With a dubious shake of the head, Etienne returned to Old Anne and his wife, waiting in Guthrie's quarters.

"Ver' black night; hard to follow de shore. Something happen to M'sieu' Guthrie. Mebbe de woman not come wid him."

"She come," insisted Old Anne. "She come when he ask. She come."

"Dat McDonald, he ver' seek man. She breag de med-eene ef she come. I go an' have a look at de trail."

Again Etienne stood on the cliff above the white Elkwan and watched for the moving spot on the ice, which would mark the approaching team. Disappointed, he was about to return to the women in the house when his keen eyes suddenly lit with excitement. Far on the white shell of the river seemed to move a black spot. For a space the half-breed studied the barely distinguishable object. Then he trotted to the quarters.

"Dey come," he cried to the waiting women. "Dey turn de beeg islan'."

When the huskies that had traveled forty miles since daylight drew in to the cliff trail at a slow walk, Guthrie hurried to the waiting Etienne with the demand: "You got him here? He's alive?"

The half-breed nodded, then with a white grin turned to the girl on the sled. "Hello! You welcome to Elkwan, m'm'selle!" as he assisted her out of the robes.

"I'm mighty glad to see you, Etienne. How are Marie and the chicks, and dear Old Anne?"

"Oh, ver' fine, tanks. You have hard ride las' night?"

Joan and Guthrie exchanged smiles. "We surely did," replied Guthrie. "We camped at de Kapiskan."

"At de Kapiskan?"

Guthrie's thoughts were of the man at his quarters and he did not explain. With Joan and Savanne he hurried across the clearing.

"Well?" he questioned, as the army nurse finished taking the pulse and temperature of the man whose rough breathing filled the room.

Without answering she placed her ear to the broad chest of the man muttering in delirium. After a space he turned to the waiting Guthrie with averted eyes.

"I don't quite understand. Pulse almost normal, temperature only 101. Inspiration not high, and yet he's developed pneumonia in one lung. I can hardly hear the rales!"

"You mean he has been the flu?" "I think so; he's so strong. But pneumonia—"

"It hits the big men hardest," he said gloomily.

Joan gave the patient a hypodermic of stychnia and left the room to make some gruel.

"Craig Galbraith—Laughing McDonald!" mused Guthrie aloud. "You gave all you had for Canada, and now Canada hunts you because a woman without eyes could see only your scars."

On her return with the nourishment, Joan found Guthrie still gazing with somber eyes at his friend.

With her well-equipped medicine kit, and her wide experience with influenza and pneumonia cases in the army, Joan Quarrier gave immediate battle for the life dependent on her care. But the problem confronting Guthrie was more complex. What was to become of Galbraith if he lived? Cameron would waste no time in taking possession of the schooner and its valuable cargo, which he would hold for the disposition of the authorities at Ottawa. But the schooner and cargo belonged to the estates of the dead men. McDonald was officially dead. He, a hunted man, could not claim it. Who, beside his wife, were his heirs? Garth did not know.

Then Cameron had said the police were coming shortly to the bay in search of the man who called himself McDonald. Failing to find McDonald's body, which Garth said he had seen on the boat, they would naturally come to Elkwan to talk to the man who brought the news to Albany. If Craig lived, he would be weeks in bed, recovering his strength. Where could they hide a man needing constant care if a police dog-team appeared on the ice below the post? Etienne could be hustled into bed and bandaged to corroborate the story told to Cameron, but Galbraith—what of him? Accessory though it made him to the crime of his friend, the gray eyes of Guthrie hardened at the thought of Galbraith, V. C. Galbraith the trench-raider, whose name was known the length of the British front, being hounded down in his dire extremity. Garth laughed as he pictured the police attempting to take Laughing McDonald on his schooner in the fullness of his strength—McDonald Ha! Ha! and the bearded mate who limped, with Lewis guns and the snipers' rifles they had slept with for four years.

And Joan—he had made her an accessory as well; asked her to nurse a man she knew, now, was wanted for murder. How was he to square his conscience with that? To pay his debt to Galbraith he not only had asked her to throw her reputation to the winds, but to defy the law—Joan Quarrier, who had stepped into his life to become his world.

It stripped down to this: If the police found Galbraith at Elkwan Guthrie was done. Cameron might fix it with the company, but the authorities would be merciless. Then the smug Charles could revel in his "I told you so's," and Ethel—he had not thought of Ethel, whose Christmas letters he had not answered, since he found Joan Quarrier on the Albany clearing—she could thank Heaven for her lucky escape.

"But the police won't find him at Elkwan!" Guthrie rasped through his teeth, and went to the trade-house to make his plans with Etienne.

"Did you have any trouble getting him up here?" Guthrie asked.

"No, he holler some, but he was lashed in good."

Then Guthrie explained the part Etienne was to play when the police appeared. They would want to interview him, and must find him in bed, a sick man. Accordingly, he must have the bandages, which Miss Quarrier would prepare at once, ready to put on. The children would have to be coached and kept out of the way.

"Have you ever been badly hurt, Etienne?"

The half-breed smiled and opening his shirts, drew them back, baring a long scar across the muscular chest.

"At Henley house, at de New Year dance, I get dis, mance year ago. I was ver' seek man. I know. When police dey come, I be ver' seek man once more."

Guthrie laughed outright at the gravity of his head man.

"Trust you, Etienne, to act your part anywhere! Now if we could only keep them away from my quarters, but I've got to feed them there. That's where the danger lies. He may make a noise. He'll have to have an opiate to keep him quiet. If they hear him, it's all up with us."

Savanne took the pipe from his mouth and leaned toward his chief, the muscles in his swart face knotted with the intensity of his feeling. For a space the two men hardly breathed as the narrowed eyes of the half-breed bored into Guthrie's quizzical gaze. Then Etienne said slowly: "You are good frien' to me an' my familee. I feex dese police—if you—say so."

Slowly, as he read the stark sincerity of the offer in the other's face—sensed that his friend of the dusky skin was bringing to the altar of their friendship the supreme gift, the hazard of his life, Guthrie's eyes softened with the affection which two years of river and coast and trail with Etienne Savanne had kindled. He reached out a long arm and took the sneaky hand of the other.

"I won't forget—my friend."

The swart face of the half-breed lit with pride at the words, then turning away, he threw over his shoulder: "I get de bandage from M'a'selle Quarrier an' show Marie how to mak' good nurse."

His temperature's risen to 103. I can hear it in the other lung now."

Joan Quarrier entered the room, from which Old Anne had taken the sled.

"Double pneumonia?" Guthrie muttered. "Not a chance, after the flu is there? Poor old Craig! We've done what we could."

She raised her eyes to the man who slouched, head in hands, elbows on knees. "Friendship is a very real thing to you."

He looked up. "Yes, so real that without a thought of the cost to you, I brought you into this—"

"That was rather a fine compliment to me, Mr. Exile, that you should feel sure of me—know that I would come."

"I thought only of him—of what I owed him." For an interval he was silent, then continued with a look that brought the blood to her face: "You?—I knew you would come—when you understood. But it was unfair—wrong."

"Why wrong?" she demurred. "Etienne or this man, what did it matter? You needed me to help you and I came."

"But I've done worse still. If the police find him here, you'll be subject to the law—an accessory. I did not think. I was mad, but I want to get you out of this before it's too late. I'll take you to Albany tomorrow."

As Joan Quarrier stared at the speaker, her surprise slowly shifted to anger. The dark eyes lit with a look new to the man who watched.

"You mean that? You think I'd desert him, dying, your friend?"

He shrugged hopelessly in the face of her determination. "You're in a false position. I had no right—"

"Stop!" she commanded, raising her hand in finality. "Now, if they come, what will you do?"

For a space he could not answer, swept by a wave of pride in the staunchness of the girl of whom he had asked so much.

"I've got to feed them here. Can you keep him under an opiate?"

"Yes, he's under one now. If he grows delirious, as some do, he'll injure himself—try to get up. We'll have to keep him lashed to the bed."

"I'll get them over to the trade-house as soon as they eat. They may not stay more than a night, but when they fall to find his body at the schooner, they'll want to see me."

"I gave Etienne his bandages and showed Marie how to adjust them."

"What a wonderful coconspirator you are, Healer of Wounds! How am I ever to repay you?" He sat from habit with the unmarried left side of his face quartering on the girl. Suddenly she straightened, startling him with the tenderness of her look.

"Why do you sit that way?" she demanded angrily.

"What—what do you mean?" he asked, confused by her tone.

"You treat me as if I were—oh, like the one he came back to." She pointed toward the adjacent sickroom.

Vaguely her meaning dawned on him. Scars—to her—were an accolade. Those straight eyes of hers never turned in horror from a wound.

"Forgive me," he said, and his eyes clouded with mist. "I knew the day I met you—that you saw beyond—the scars."

For an instant her face was radiant with a look that stirred the man with the mad desire to go to her—take her in his arms—wring from this woman who doubted him—his love, the admission that she too cared. But no, not here, his ward and guest, helpless to avoid him. His chivalry checked his impulse. She knew he loved her; she should have fair play at Elkwan.

Muttered words from the sick man drew them to his bedside. The great frame, banded by strips of cloth to confine him in his delirium, rendered the bed he lay on insignificant. His heavy russet hair, smoothed by the nurse from his wide forehead, framed the deep blue eyes which stared, unseeing at the ceiling of the room. Below leered the torn mouth, ghastly in its distortion.

"We were happy—before," they heard him mutter. "I know—I know—it was hard. But couldn't you bear it—for the sake of—the old days? Handsome Galbraith—it was—once. Then—that shell! Good-by, Handsome Galbraith!—But you—I loved—needed. Your eyes! God! the look in them—when you saw me!"

The eyes of Joan Quarrier and Guthrie met. Two tears, ignored, slowly wet her cheeks. The face of the man was twisted with pity.

"What hell he must have lived through!"

"And she—why are such creatures put into the world?" said the girl, huskily. "When his need of her was greatest—she unmasked her little soul."

Involuntarily Guthrie started. How unerringly she had characterized Ethel. Had she guessed, he wondered.

"I can guess what followed," Guthrie replied. "I know him. Heart-broken—he often spoke of her—he went to drink, to forget. Then it happened."

"But after all, are they sure he's the man?"

"The circumstantial evidence puts it beyond question—the description, his being here in the north."

While Joan caught a few hours' sleep in the room of Guthrie which he had again given her, the factor sat beside the unconscious man, whose tortured lungs labored for breath.

Before she lay down the girl stood quizzically before the photographs which still stood in their places on his dresser.

"You're very lovely," she murmured. "It's not strange that he can't forget you. He still remembers or you'd not be here—still remembers, although he wants me to think he has forgotten."

be here—still remembers, although he wants me to think he has forgotten."

CHAPTER XIV

In early afternoon Etienne swung back the trade-house door with a crash.

"Dog-team on de riviere!"

"All right," replied Guthrie. "Tell Miss Quarrier on your way. Now you get into those bandages and into bed, and don't have the children around if they come to talk to you."

"I am ver' seek man," laughed the half-breed and went out.

So the police had come? He hadn't expected them for days, but they must have reached Albany from Moose the day he left. They certainly hadn't lingered at the schooner with Cameron's men; mystified at failing to find the body of McDonald, they probably wanted to talk first to the men who had discovered the tragedy, then return to Seal Cove.

They would pass at least one night at Elkwan to talk it over. There was no alternative to having them eat at his quarters. There lay the danger. He would rush them through supper and to the trade-house where they would sleep, as, of course, Joan Quarrier had his spare bed. Etienne's accident they would have heard of from Cameron, and Etienne and Marie were more than equal to entertaining them with the picture of a man suffering from a painful wound. The rub would come at meal time. Would the opiate keep McDonald quiet—and his breathing—would they hear it? If only he could have been moved for a day, but where? The trade-house, factor's quarters, and Etienne's were the sole heated buildings at the post. Going to his quarters, he called Joan and Old Anne.

"Dog Team on the Riviere!"

"Anne, you can't speak English—don't answer any questions. Understand?" The broad face of the cook stretched in a smile as she winked.

"Nana," she answered in Cree.

"Good! And when you hear us come in for supper, make as much noise as you can in the kitchen. Sing all you wish, rattle the pans. When you wait on us, talk to me in Cree—all the time. See? They may hear him breathe."

"Enn-enn!" replied the Cree.

"How is he now?" Guthrie asked Joan.

Her eyes reflected her anxiety. "Worse—much worse. Raging fever—105; pulse running away. He's been straining terribly at his bonds. Lucky you and Etienne made them strong."

"You gave him the opiate, of course?"

"Yes, he's feeling it now. By supper time he'll be quiet—but his breathing?"

"That's what worries me," Guthrie went to the sick room where the giant, bound to his bed by thick bandages of cloth, lay moaning in a half stupor. "Old Craig. To finish like this!" Sorrowfully, the man who was imperiling his future that his friend might have his chance went out to meet the approaching dog-team.

TIDES OF SEASON

When lilacs bloom and summer shows
In green of earth and tree and vine
And streams run full from melted snows;

The deciduous shrubs in sunlight shine;
When all of nature's songs will ring
New life shall fill this heart of mine.

The gray of winter's mode will cling
Till sap has run its chartered course
And Southland's birds northward take wing.

Zephyrs sweet, whence spring the source
Of tides you loose for enchanted craft
To hide gray winter's nameless remorse?

Oh boundless strength, with breath so soft,
What magic waits my soul aloft!

D'HANIS, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1941

Miss Elizabeth Franger returned home from San Antonio last week. She had accompanied her cousins Norma and Hulda Marie Smith, on a brief visit to Galveston.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Tondre were in Laredo last week where they attended a convention of County Judges and Commissioners.

Mrs. Henry L. Weyand is sending the Anvil Herald to her son, Jacob Weyand, who is a selectee in the school of mechanics at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Mr. Jos. Koch and daughter Cornelia visited his sister, Mrs. John Gersdorf, a few days last week.

Mrs. Jack Reilly of Hondo spent Sunday here with her sister, Mrs. Annie Haby.

Homer Nester left recently for Lafayette, La., where he re-entered Southwest Louisiana Institute for his sophomore year. Classes will not begin until after the present army maneuvers in that section, and until then Homer is working out with the college football team. He is making his home with his brother, Mr. Roy Nester, and family.

Hilmar J. Koch, who is employed by the State Highway Department in road construction work near Kerrville, was at home last week-end. He was recently elected honorary citizen of Boys Town, Neb., by the mayor and councilman of that noted place.

Several D'Hanis football fans and some of the members of the D'Hanis Pep Squad attended the game at La Pryor last Friday afternoon. The score was 21-22 in favor of the Cowboys.

Mrs. Roy Nester and children of Lafayette, La., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nester last week.

Miss Antoinette Dubray, formerly of D'Hanis and now of Houston, last week won the Stephen Foster scholarship at a Conservatory of music in that city. Fifty applicants played in the original audition. Miss Dubray is a talented pianist, and this scholarship entitles her to a complete course at the Conservatory. She is making her home with her aunt, Mrs. Will Crow.

WEDNESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Ervin Nester was hostess to her club on Friday afternoon at her home this week. Bouquets of summer flowers adorned the rooms. Mrs. prize for guests and Mrs. Herman Charles Langfeld received high score for members. Mrs. Walter Burrell received low. Other players included Mesdames Louis Carle Jr., Arthur Nester, James Finger, Martin Ney, and Lawrence Carle, and Misses Ursie Lee Rock and Ethel Rothe. The hostess served delicious ice cream, cake, and date bars to the guests.

Miss Evelyn Woodley T. C. U. Graduate Teaching in H.H.S.

Miss Evelyn Woodley, graduate of T. C. U., is teaching the fourth grade in H. H. S. this year.

She finished high school in Sabinal and attended college for four years at T. C. U. in Fort Worth and went to summer school a year at Our Lady of the Lake. She received her B. A. in public school music, minored in music theory and likes both classical and swing music.

While at T. C. U., Miss Woodley was president of the Glee Club for one year, vice-president of the Music Club, and a member of the Bryson Club.

Her favorite hobby is keeping scrap books. Favorite pastime—listening to records. Sports—swimming, horseback, football, and baseball. Favorite song—"Stardust". Favorite orchestras—Tommy Dorsey and Paul Whiteman. Favorite colors—red and blue. Likes to dance, go to shows, read, teach school, and fried potatoes. Dislikes milk, coffee, snooty people, and dogs. Favorite subject—music.

Miss Woodley claims that she is not superstitious and that the most important incident in her life was going to college. Her ambition was to become a music teacher.

We sincerely hope that Miss Woodley will enjoy teaching here this coming year.

SCHOOL NEWS

From The Owl:
F. F. A. NEWS

Cooperation and conservation of soil and wild game are the prominent features of the new program of work adopted at the last F. F. A. meeting.

Under the new program each boy will strive to better his home and community life and each will receive several hours of parliamentary drill.

Jim Amberson was elected to fill the office of Historian for the coming year.

The dates for the future meetings have been set as the first and third Wednesday of each month. The executive committee will decide when play meetings are to be held. Refreshments will be served after the play meetings.

Thirty members were present at the last meeting.

All boys must pay their state and national dues by October 1, 1941, to be eligible to participate in future F. F. A. activities.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS ELECTED

The Junior class held their first regular class meeting Thursday morning, September 11, for the purpose of electing officers. Miss Nally, Junior sponsor, took charge of the meeting until the president was elected. The following officers were elected:

President—Stanley Hollmig.
Vice-President—Marcellus Garrison.
Secretary-Treasurer—Rosie Finger.

Reporter—Marge Woolls.
Parliamentarian—Frank Graff.
Mrs. Ed. Ney was chosen as room-mother.

SENIOR CLASS NEWS

Last week Friday the Senior class held a meeting for the election of officers. Miss Williams acted as chairman during the meeting. Those elected for an office were:

Clinton Britsch—President.
Dorothy Woolls—Vice-President.
Maurice Zerr—Secretary-Treasurer.

Geraldine Stiegler—Reporter.
The latter part of the week another meeting was held to elect their room mothers; they were Mrs. A. C. Gilliam and Mrs. Selby Woolls. The class also have selected their Senior rings and are awaiting their arrival. The Senior class this year decided to have more entertainment than usual. They are planning to have a very happy and successful year.

PEP SQUAD ORGANIZES

Forty-eight members will take part in the pep squad this year. They are the following:

Mary Adele Bader, Grace Woolls, Darlene Brucks, Virgie Stiegler, Ina Mae Wernette, Ellen Moore, Shirley Ulbrich, Frances Martin, Doris Stiegler, Stella Grell, Rose Marie Finger, Toadie Beal, Gladys Bohlen, Ann Haralson, Dorothy Mae Johnson, Adell Braden, Virginia Snow, Frances Ruth Rucker, Lindabel Saathoff, Frances Bendele, Dorothy Woolls, Geraldine Stiegler, Kathieen Rohrbach, Dolores Taylor, Anna Lee Rucker, Jonell Weber, Winona Wendland, Dorothy Garrison, Elizabeth Nester, Alma Nester, Dorothy Grell, Nellie Mae Scott, Vernice Taylor, Clara Sue Stevens, Laura Ann Muennink, Willie Jean Nester, Dorothy Bohmfalk, Pasty Lou Kollman, Lorine Hermes, Betty Jean Bader, Dorothy Ney, Margaret Woolls, Mary Elizabeth Moore, Adele Muennink, Victoria Gonzales, Yolanda Guedea, Odilia Quintanilla, and Hilaria Ramos.

The same uniforms as used last year will be used this year, but new caps were decided upon.

Mascots for this year are Mary Louise Decker and Sue Ann Short.

Miss Nalley is the pep squad sponsor and Mrs. Alfred Finger is the pep squad mother.

The pep squad was unable to perform at the Devine-Hondo game due to the fact that not all the girls had uniforms, and the caps had not arrived. However, a "V" was made at the goal posts, through which the boys entered the field at the end of the half.

By next Friday all of the members will have their uniforms and new caps and the pep squad will be ready to perform. With the addition of a bugle corps, they should furnish much encouragement to the team.

FOOLISH SPENDING

The trouble is that too many people are spending money which they haven't yet earned. For things which they don't need, To impress people they don't like.

BEEES

I hope that I shall never see Another tiny honey bee.

A bee its stinger snugly pressed Against my nose—you know the rest.

A bee that all the summer made Sweet honey a la nectarade.

A bee that tempted me with food, Then when I took it, acted rude.

If I crave honey any more, I'll get it from the grocery store.
